What is integrated pest management (IPM)?

Integrated pest management (IPM) is a scientific, more sustainable approach to controlling pests that uses biological, mechanical, and chemical tactics to eliminate infestations. In addition to reducing impacts on the surrounding environment, this helps minimize the likelihood of pesticide resistance.

IPM promotes long-term pest prevention. At its core, it is focused on correcting structural, sanitation, and storage conditions that can attract and harbor pests.

Committed to innovation.

We're constantly innovating new pest management solutions to increase effectiveness and decrease our impact on the planet.
